Emergency Medicine Physician, Genesis Medical Center, Davenport IA

Dr. Jacqueline Kitchen is a board-certified Emergency Medicine physician practicing at Genesis Medical Center in Davenport. She was born in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, but lived in San Antonio, Texas for most of her life before attending medical school at University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, Texas. From there, she attended Emergency Medicine residency at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics in Iowa City. She fell in love with Iowa during that time and decided to stay in Iowa to practice Emergency Medicine. While in residency, she attended the ACEP Leadership and Advocacy Conference in 2012, and discovered she had a passion for political activism with regards to patient care and betterment of the healthcare system. She hopes to be part of a movement increase efforts on a statewide level to that end.

Dr. Kitchen and her wife, who also works in the field of Emergency Medicine as a registered nurse, live near Iowa City. She enjoys reading, spending time outdoors, and traveling - especially to anywhere the Texas Aggie football team plays.
